

YOUR VITILIGO. YOUR DECISION.

If you're considering treatment options for you or your child, we invite you to learn more about the Tranquillo clinical trial

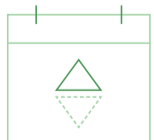

Vitiligo is personal. When it comes to your skin, the best decision is your own.

Wherever you are on your journey with vitiligo, we want to meet you where you are. By taking part in the Tranquillo trial (or study), you or your child can help us learn if an oral investigational or study medicine is safe and if it could potentially treat vitiligo.

When you or your child participate in a study, you're helping to represent people with vitiligo across the globe. Your participation could help contribute to what we know about potential treatments.

This clinical trial is enrolling adults and adolescents who have had nonsegmental vitiligo for at least three months and:

Are 12 years old or older

Have either active or stable vitiligo

Have vitiligo spots on the face and body

Participation lasts for about one year
